

Annual Meeting of United Church Shows Progress

Following are the minutes of the annual meeting of the Wainwright United Church held last week, when a nice attendance was present. The chair was taken by the pastor Rev. T. E. Armstrong, B.A., B.D., and Mr. W. Huntingford was elected secretary of the meeting.

The minutes of the previous annual meeting having been read by the secretary, were adopted.

The report of the Sessions Board was read, which showed a nice progress throughout the year. This was adopted on a motion, and received commendation.

A resolution was adopted on a motion by Mr. J. W. Daugherty and W. H. Lyle that a vote of condolence and a message of sympathy be sent to the wife and relatives of the late Mr. J. C. McLeod.

An outline of the work of the Sunday school was given by Mrs. G. Armstrong, which showed a good year's interest in this work and a nice balance in the bank at the close of the year. This report was adopted on a motion by Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Bowerman.

The work carried on by the C.G.I. T., the Trail Rangers, the "Y.P.S." and the "Explorers" was all ably outlined and reported upon, and the success of these different organizations of the church throughout the year was noted.

A report of the work of the W. M.S. was given by Mrs. W. Lyle, and it was noted that the allocation from this branch for the past year had been met in full.

The meeting heard a nice report of the efforts of the Women's Association during 1934, from which it was learned that a very large sum of money had been raised through the work of the members, and this had been used in the furtherance of the church's work. This society had a balance on hand of nearly $80.00 to start the new year's work.

In reporting for the church choir, Mrs. G. Clark mentioned that they had a small balance on hand to close the year's books, and that in many ways they had lent their aid to many efforts of the church during 1934. In this connection votes of thanks were accorded to the organists for their faithful work.

Speaking as chairman of the Board of Stewards, Mr. H. P. Deblitz gave a splendid report of the work of his board during the past year. He stated that all accounts accruing had been met, and that a small balance remained after the year closed. He

MISS D. KINNEY, OF EDMONTON,
CHARMING BRIDE SATURDAY

The marriage of Dorothy Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. J. A. Kinney, of Edmonton, and the Hon. J. R. Love, provincial treasurer, took place at Robertson church at high noon, Saturday, Rev. Thomas Mitchell, D. D., of St. Stephen's college, and Rev. H. A. McLeod officiating.

In the church, greenery was placed in the pulpit and at the aisles for the ceremony. Mr. Henry A'ack played the wedding marches and the ushers were Mr. Clarence Richards, Mr. Wilfred Kinney and Mr. John Broad.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was very smart in brown velvet, fashioned on long graceful lines. Her hat and her shoes were brown, to match her frock, and she carried bronze chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids, Miss Marian and Miss Margaret Kinney, sisters of the bride, were frocked alike. Miss Marian in hunter's green and Miss Margaret in rust. Both wore brown hats, brown shoes and accessories, and corsage bouquets of yellow roses.

The best man was Dr. Robert L. Broad. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the residence of the bride's family on 110 st. where more than 75 guests were in attendance. The toast to the bride was given by Hon. R. G. Reid, premier of Alberta. Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Roberts Broad presided at the bride's table. For their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Love left for Calgary and Banff, to be away until the opening of the provincial legislature. For travelling Mrs. Love was in brown tailormade worn with brown fur and tily hat.

extended the thanks of the members for the great assistance rendered them and the church by the work of other organizations, especially the W. A. He was delighted with the cooperation of all which had been given them, and felt that the church was truly doing a good and wonderful work. He appealed for a continuance of the support which they had received in the past, and closed his report by mentioning that the sum of only $575.00 was now outstanding on buildings.

The subscription to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of the church at large amounting to $124.05 had been forwarded to Toronto, this proving to be a larger sum than the allocation.

In billing the officers for the current year, Mr. W. T. Wright was elected as an elder in the place of the late Mr. McLeod and Mrs. F. Hackett and Mrs. G. Armstrong were elected to the Board of Managers for the next three years.

Before adjourning the meeting, hearty thanks were extended to the pastor and his family for their close co-operation and happy relations with the whole congregation during the year, and the serving of refreshments by ladies of the congregation closed the meeting.

H. E. Spencer, U.F.A. Will Back Bennett

Reform policies advocated by Premier Bennett in his series of radio addresses met with the approval of H. E. Spencer, U.F.A. member for Battle River in the house of Commons, according to a report appearing recently in the Edmonton Journal. "These are things we have been urging in the house for years," said Mr. Spencer. "If legislation of that kind is brought up, it will have my support."

Recently the board of governors passed a resolution barring members of the staff from being candidates in provincial or federal election campaigns. ## Tragedy Drama Theatre Offering

The romance of a queen for a foreign ambassador in the tragedy-drama "Queen Christina" which plays at the Elite Friday and Saturday this week gives Grand Garbo a sweeping opportunity upon which she capitalizes to the fullest extent of her charming powers.

It is a production which is equally attractive to both sexes, full of historical sweep and inherent drama, with Garbo the dominating queen swept by the passions of love against duty.

It is a costume drama, set in 17th century, with the great Swedish king dying on the field of battle in the Thirty-years war. The child Christina comes to the throne under the guidance of a chancellor. The scene moves on to the young womanhood of the queen and while she seeks peace her people demand she marry Prince Charles, a victorious general.

They are happy for a short time, but the jealous Prince Charles stirs up the people, and Christina is forced to give the ambassador his passport in order to save his life.

In a brilliant ball scene, where it is expected she will announce her betrothal, she starts all by abdicating in favor of the prince, and leaves the throne to join her lover in Spain. When she arrives at the boat which will carry them to happiness she finds that her future husband has been mortally wounded by the prince. Before dying he tells her of his castle in Spain, and she leaves Sweden behind, bound for that castle. Friday and Saturday this week.

TODAY & TOMORROW

SHAKESPEARE

The other night I was asked to stand up and talk about Shakespeare before a hundred or so young men and women, training to become Shakespearean actors. Two things surprised me. One was the enthusiasm for Shakespeare's plays among the younger generation; the other was their utter ignorance that Shakespeare had been anything but an actor writing plays for actors.

When I told them for every person who had ever seen one of Shakespeare's plays on the stage there were probably thousands who had read and re-read them still for their literary quality, many of my hearers were amazed.

Shakespeare's place in English literature rests on the firmest of foundations. His writings were the first to give our language the form and shape which it has. Phrases and idioms which he first coined are commonplace of everyday speech.

It is hard to write for cultured people or to talk with them without using Shakespearean expressions.

And for deep understanding of human nature in all of its phases no writer has ever come near to Shakespeare's insight.

AMERICA

Every little while I rediscovers America, and realize again what a wonderful country it is.

The other day I dropped into a New York sporting goods store, and ran into two people I knew. One was buying heavy woolen socks and cap, to take along to a skiing party in the New Hampshire mountains. The other was about to start for Florida, and was getting a new bathing suit.

The same evening I met two other friends. One has a newspaper job in Paris and comes home once a year for a vacation. The other is an English journalist who had just got back from a three-month tour of the United States.

"I'm going to tell England that America is the happiest, most prosperous country in the world," said the latter, while the man from Paris painted a word-picture of the war-torn of the people of France that was little less than shocking.

I am getting pretty tired of Americans who "kiss" the United States.

GARNER

I hear from Washington that "Jack" Garner has advised the President to tell some of his New Dealers to keep their mouths shut. The Vice-President has plenty of sound common-sense.

"Some of these bright young men remind me of Christopher Columbus," my informant reports him as saying. "When Columbus started out he didn't know where he was going; when he got there he didn't know where he was, and when he got back he didn't know where he had been."

Not mentioning any names, the Vice-President left.

METROPOLIS

The average American thinks of

New York as a city of gay frivolity. That is because he sees and hears of only the part of it that is staged for the entertainment of visitors from out of town.

In the Winter I "hole up" in one of the old parts of New York where everybody knows each other and most of us live simply, in ancient houses, and take life easily. One of my neighbors, nearly 80, lives still in the house in which he was born.

Few of us in this Washington Square section patronize night clubs or pay the prices out-of-town folk are taxed for restaurant meals and theater tickets. When we go to the theater we sit in the balcony, and when we dine out it is generally at some Italian restaurant near home where a good dinner can be had for 75 cents.

Folk can live the simple life as well in New York as anywhere else.

ADVERTISING

... some faulty

I find more fault with a great deal of the advertising that is being done than with the movies. Much of it when it is in an effort to be "smart" is pure silliness.

No advertising is as good as plain, unvarnished statements of the truth about the advertised product and—this is important—the price. But when I see advertisements which make extravagant and unwarranted claims I wonder if the advertiser thinks he is really fooling anybody.

It would be a good idea, it seems to me, to introduce into the early grades of the public schools some education in advertising. In this practical world, nothing is more important than to know real values and how to determine them. It could easily be impressed upon the minds of children that certain types of advertising are only traps for the ignorant, and that goods of quality are never offered for less than they are worth.

4-H CLUB NEWS

4-H means, Heart, Head, Hands and Health. "Make the best better" is the slogan of the thousands of 4-H clubs of boys and girls throughout the land. The stories of achievement of the boy and girl members, in fitting themselves for a life of usefulness, are almost always an inspiration which inspires interest.

MAINE BOY SCORES

It doesn't matter where you go in this great country you will find boys and girls doing things which amaze you with the help of 4-H. Here's a boy, Keith W. Cross of near Belfast, Maine, who has come forward with a fine record in livestock production in spite of the fact that Maine is known mostly in the farm field as a producer of potatoes. This boy started his club work with a bean project which he continued, but jaunts of his club as county fairs where there were livestock exhibits and judging contests for club members widened the boy's interest into taking a pig project.

Rambling 'Round New York

Tobaccoists of New York suburbs are jubilant about New York's new sales tax for the unemployed. Commuters storm their counters for cigarettes before coming into town, thus avoiding another one cent tax.

The depression has been hard on New York clubs, and membership drives have been the order of the day for those that haven't been forced to close their doors.

The University Glee Club is of a different order. Without an expensive building of their own, they are financed largely by their honorary members such as my host at their recent concert at the Waldorf-Astoria. Frank D. Waterman of fountain pen fame.

New York divorce courts grind out their grisly verdicts day after day. Newspapers make sport of them with references to the stereotyped "unidentified blonde in a pink slip" who is cited so frequently in efforts to obtain a divorce according to New York's sole provision—adultery. Col.

act. He learned that along with his lean project and other crops he could land some pigs and it turned out they made him a very fine income.

The same way the boy got started in dairying and completed his fifth year in this project this past season to his entire satisfaction.

"My father had an old sow and was going to sell her. I asked him how much he would take for her. He said: '$10.00 for her. I went into the house," continued the boy, "and got $10.00 which I earned for a load of wood the day before."

"We had a lot of apples and I paid 10 cents a barrel for them as feed besides what other food she picked up. The pigs came March 24 and I bought some grain and milk for them and the mother."

"I sold the pigs at four weeks of age at $3.50 a piece and had nearly three times my money back when I sold the pigs at four weeks of age."

The boy had learned the formula for making money with pigs, and he learned it so well that this past year he cleared $76.08 on his pig venture.

All told the boy has taken in on his different projects $249.00 which includes $11.00 in prizes won at the county and state shows. His best award was county championship in pig raising the last three years, winning the Thomas E. Wilson gold medal which he numbers among his prize possessions. It was the first time this medal has been awarded to any boy in Maine.

COMMERCIAL FERTILIZERS

FOR WHEAT CROPS

Many farmers are of the opinion that testing of commercial fertilizers was not commenced on Experimental Farms until about 1928. Actually at Scott this work was commenced in 1918. Unfortunately the different classes of fertilizers were applied to corn once in four years in a rotation consisting of wheat, oats, grass and corn. It was not until 1927 that three crops of wheat had been grown when an announcement was made concerning the results. Two additional crops of wheat have now been grown on this land and the effect of these fertilizers for five years on wheat following broadcast applications for corn can now be made.

Nitrate of soda has had a slightly depressing effect upon the yield of wheat. The same statement can be made when nitrate of soda was used in combination with muriate of potash. Potash alone gave a yield practically the same as an untreated plot. In two of these plots sweet clover was used instead of western rye grass (with no fertilizer applied) but there was no influence in yield on the wheat crop following.

Influences on the wheat crop were obtained where phosphate was applied alone or in combination. Wherever phosphate was applied, early growth of wheat was more vigorous, the appearance of plot was more uniform, time of ripening was advanced and yields increased. An increase in yield of six bushels per acre was obtained in the form of basic slag. The yield increase was approximately four bushels where phosphate was applied in combination with nitrate of soda, muriate of potash and with both. These results provide an effective answer to those who maintain the opinion that the continued use of phosphate fertilizer has a depressing effect on the yield of wheat.

THE WAY THAT MONEY IS CARRIED

Have you ever noticed that people in different lines of business carry their money in different ways? Grocers, butchers and cattle dealers carry their money in wads; bankers in clean bills laid full length in a pocketbook; brokers in a single fold (just doubling their money); the young business man, in his vest pocket; the farmer, in an inside pocket; while the editor carries quite a lot of his dollar bills in the pockets of his subscribers.

It is an acknowledged fact in hundreds of cases every year.

New York's new favorite in fashionable dogs is the Dachshund, that dashing bit of affection and intelligence. The report is that they are selling three to one of any other variety.

Contour photography is the new development in semi-silhouettes perfected by Clarence B. Mitchell of Santa Barbara. Winner of many prizes abroad and on the Pacific coast, Mr. Mitchell is preparing an exhibition for the National Alliance of Art and Industry at Rockefeller center starting January 31st. Samples shown to me to warrant his claim that he took up the silhouette where Daguerre left off and carried it to new heights.

Into the galleries of one of New York's largest dealers in rare books, antiques, paintings and art goods, I learned to my surprise that they have three-weekly auctions of rare book collections from all over the world. A collection worth about a thousand dollars they wouldn't handle. It was too small!

An elderly jurist, seventy years in New York, recently asked what this town would be seventy years from now. If the trend is marked by Knickerbocker Village and Rockefeller Center, the two newest developments, it will mean more light, more park space, more terraces and more gardens. And how welcome that would be in this city of palaces and hovels.

The newest location for big-digging-gazeros is at the largest hole in town—the new Post Office site on Vesey street where the big shovels show out about 265 truckloads of dirt a day. There's a hole nearly two acres in extent and already below high tide level, as deep as a well for the fascinated passers-by to look at. Soon the shovels will be dug and sunk for months to come.

FOR UNEXPECTED VISITORS

The housewife with a good recipe for that old-fashioned dainty, nut loaf, is always ready for unexpected visitors who may drop in for a cup of tea—not to mention the popularity of nut-bread sandwiches for the school lunch box. Here is a nut loaf recipe upon which you can rely.

Old-Fashioned Nut Loaf
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
Two-thirds cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
3 eggs, unbeaten
1 cup finely cut nut meats
6 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Add nuts and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased loaf pan, 8x4x3 inches, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until done.

FRUITED BRIAN BREADS

It is very popular at present to serve fruited bread, not only when guests are present, but when the family dines alone. Fruited breads may be prepared at home and will always get a hearty reception. Furthermore, in serving them the housewife has the satisfaction of knowing that she is following the dictates of good health as well as appealing to the palate. Bran is one of the most valuable of the "bulk" foods, and sufficient "bulk" in our diets is something we require if we are to keep our systems in good running order.

Bran Fig Honey Bread

1 egg
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup honey
1 tablespoon melted shortening
1 cup bran
2 1/2 cups flour
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1 cup chopped figs
1 1/2 cups milk

Beat egg, add sugar, honey and melted shortening. Mix well. Add bran. Sift flour with soda, baking powder and salt. Add pecans and figs.

Bran Prune Bread

A SLIGHT LAPSE OF TIME AND—

The FAMILY DOCTOR
by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES M.D.

TO SAVE MONEY—BORIC ACID

An old, time-tried friend, this Boric Acid. Go to your drugist and buy yourself a pound—get the name right—Boric Acid. Not "Borax", nor yet "boracic acid." You want a pound of Boric Acid. It need not cost you over fifty cents—possibly not so much. It should be powdered, not crystals.

Then, what have you? It is one of my office stand-bys.

Well, a first-class dusting powder for the whole family. It is the basis of most dusting powders, sold at many times higher prices. You will have saved several dollars in one season by buying this way. It is a good application for wounds, too.

And, you have the stuff to dissolve in water—and you have the very best and safest mouth-wash going; no high-priced mouth "antiseptic" approaches it in efficacy.

Dissolve a little in an ounce of pure, boiled water, and you have a first-class wash for inflamed eyes. Your doctor will agree that I am right. Eyes with red, angry lids, from excessive perspiration. Nothing better than boric acid solution. Then, you've got a remedy for skin inflammations—nearly all kinds. Make up wet dressings with strong boric acid solution and lay them on the inflamed spots—you will be gratified.

Shall I say more? There is no better s-s-s powder for making a douche; the doctor can give you no better, and costs nearly nothing. Honest old boric acid! Wives and mothers love it.

There is so much quackery—humbug these days; you had as well have service that costs you a cent or two as to pay some oily-tongued blatherer a dollar for the same thing.

Western Canada is extremely fortunate that threshed grain is not attacked to any extent by stored-product pests. Eastern Canada, particularly Ontario, is not so fortunate, as severe losses may be sustained by the ravages of the granary weevil, not only in elevator storage but also in farmers' bins.

SLENDER DAYTIME FROCK

Pattern 8379: Women of larger build like a simple, dignified frock for general wear. They know that the conservative style is most becoming and inconspicuous and for that reason they choose a model like the one sketched.

The soft graceful revers and the vestee together with the simple turned back cuffs, give a nice contrasting color note and add gayety to an otherwise plain frock. The double-breasted closing of the waist is continued in effect by the panel in the skirt. The back of the skirt also has a panel and there is nothing more slenderizing to a large figure than panels. Small tucks at back of neck give an easy fit.

A rough crepe silk, in dark tones either printed or plain will look well in this design.

REPAIRING TILLAGE IMPLEMENTS

Careful repairing of tillage machinery each winter or early spring with replacement of doubtful worn parts has been proven by the Dominion Experimental Station at Swift Current in experiments on cost of operating farm machinery to pay large dividends by preventing major costly repairs.

Tillage implements generally receive less care and more hard knocks than any other class of farm machinery.

The value of any implement can only be measured by its usefulness in acres covered, quality of work done and freedom from the necessity of costly repairs and delay. Delays due to breakdowns during the rush tillage season of spring and summer are costly and easily prevented if the farmer, with a few tools and a little time, will check over carefully every working or wearing part long before he is going to use the machine.

Check over every machine carefully for loose, worn or stripped bolts; replace broken spring washers and check all loose or slack parts. Wheel and power life bearings, disk boxes and all moving parts should be adjusted for wear. Clean all working parts of old grease, oil, dirt and steel particles with kerosene and replace with plenty of fresh lubricants.

Plough shares, cultivator shovels, disk blades and all cutting edges should be sharpened well in advance of spring. Have all springs set sharp and as well. Check the alignment of brace arms, beams, hitches, land-slides and mouldboards. Harrow teeth and cultivator shanks generally need straightening after every season's run.

Make a list of all new parts needed, secure these during the winter and replace the old parts before spring work starts.

Tests at the Swift Current Station have shown that thoroughly repaired implements give trouble-free service whereas, carelessly checked over machines caused frequent loss of time and higher operating costs. Sharp cutting edges, correct alignment of draft, uniformity of depth and proper working of all moving parts will result materially the draft and cost of operating tillage implements.

STUBBLE PREPARATION FOR GRAIN

Approximately half of the grain acreage on the prairie plains is sown on stubble. The time to prepare this land for crop is limited. Consequently it is important to determine the best methods from the standpoint of time required and yields obtained.

GRANT FLEMING, M.D. — ASSOCIATE SECRETARY

EARLY SYMPTOMS

There are those who criticize the education of the public with regard to the symptoms of disease. They base their objections on the claim that the only thing such education does is to arouse unwarranted fears. We are of the opinion that there is a great deal of difference between the fear of ignorance and an intelligent understanding of danger. Experience has shown that the latter is attained in the vast majority of cases by the health education of the public.

This explanation is made to our readers so that they may understand the purpose we have in mind when we continue to refer to the early symptoms of disease. We have no idea that our readers will learn how to diagnose disease. Our hope is that they will gain an appreciation of the significance of certain symptoms or signs which may indicate the onset of disease. This is important for it is the only practical way whereby disease may be brought under treatment early at a time when we may accomplish most by adequate medical care.

The cure of cancer is possible if the disease is recognized and treated at its beginning while it is still a local condition. How can we hope to have the public come for treatment with early cancers unless they have learned to recognize in themselves the symptoms which should arouse suspicion of the presence of cancer.

Plowing is not a practical procedure, in fall or spring. A stubble preparation on heavy soils but can be used advantageously on loam soils. At the Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, (loam soil) returns from wheat are two and a half bushels higher for spring plowing when compared with fall plowing. A similar result was found with oats but the yield was five bushels more in favor of spring plowing while the results from spring cultivation were midway between. Where similar results are obtainable the practice followed, in keeping with these findings, is to spring plow as much as time will permit and cultivate the balance.

For many years when it was feasible, burning of stubble was a common procedure. This was either done in fall or spring. Results obtained at Scott for burning stubble also favor doing this operation in spring. In dry years this practice has brought serious results from a standpoint of soil drifting. Burning of straw in rows after harvesting crop and leaving combine has left strips where much soil drifting has originated.

Where cultivation can be advantageously used the question arises should it be done in spring or fall from the standpoint of yield returns. Results with wheat at Scott for the past six years show no difference in yield between spring and fall cultivation. During the same period where no cultivation was given before seeding the yields were a failure and weeds occupied the plots.

These results illustrate the necessity of some form of tillage before seeding on stubble. In falls which are wet, plowing has proven more advantageous than in dry falls. Apart from soil type the preparation to be given stubble for grain is influenced by weed destruction, soil drifting and cost of operations in keeping with resulting yields.

CHARACTER IS BORN

A million sermons have been preached about Adam, berating him for his lost innocence. Adam was innocent in the Garden, in the same sense that the sheep were innocent, and the sheep are just as innocent now as they were then. But Adam is Eden had no character, and character is the one good thing which God alone does not create. It is a joint product.

Just what the sin was which is recorded under the symbol of the tree and its fruit we do not know. It is an admirable symbol. The birds in Eden pecked holes in the fruit of that tree, as of many others. No fruit-eating beasts held it in special regard. Adam's sin was something which was wrong for him but not wrong for beasts and birds, some act of unbridled lust or bloody revenge; and having done it, he knew instantly that it was wrong. Somehow, in this new green universe, remorse and repentance entered into the soul of a living creature; and character began.

"A being such as I should be capable of something better," he said to himself.

Why did he say it?

What made him say it?

How was it that he knew himself to be different from the beasts that perish? Why was he so sure that it was wrong for him and not for them to use his brief opportunity for all it was worth? What persuaded him that God cared?

No matter if the story in Genesis be an allegory; no matter if it summarize in the experience of 1 man a process which worked itself out through generations or centuries. The central fact remains, that one day somebody stood out against a background of innocent and contented animalism and assumed the self-consciousness and remorse which go with a moral nature. To that someone, we owe a debt which we can never repay. He was earth's first great hero.

Adam in the Garden, fattening on the fruits that grow without labor, has had too much attention. We care little for that brief inglorious period in his existence. It could not last long. Let us rather remember that later Adam, contending with thorns and thistles, trying hard to govern his rising generation which perplexed him as it has perplexed succeeding fathers, the Adam who earned his bread with the sweat of his brow, the Adam who courageously, uncomplainingly carried and brinded down to his descendants a nature capable of responding to lust and duty. That Adam is the first in honor as well as in time. He and Eve sent down to us the qualities that lift us out of the dust from which they came and back to which we, like them, return.

Canadian branded beef is exactly what the name implies—the beef has been graded for quality under the authority of the Dominion Department of Agriculture and is plainly stamped in the form of ribbon-like marks running lengthwise.

The annual statutory meeting of the ratepayers of the Town of Wainwright, the Wainwright school district, and the Wainwright municipal hospital district, will be held in the Town Hall on Friday next at 8 p.m.

This is a fine opportunity for ratepayers to learn the why and whereof of the various legislation enacted by these governing bodies during the past year, and every ratepayer should make it a point to attend and listen to the reports of the several councillors, and board members.

HELPING WITHOUT HOPE OF GAIN

Tonight I strolled into the office of my good friend James E. Barrett, managing director of the Oklahoma Billmore Hotel and found him in a study says the columnist. When I inquired what he was thinking about, he answered by saying, "Science."

"Well," I said, "tell me what you think about science." Jim said, "Did you ever stop to think of the wonders of science, which make our life so congenial? It seems that few people seldom think of the men behind the scenes who toil day in and day out for the uplifting and improvement of mankind. The world owes so much to science."

As science is rather deep for me, I asked him what he thought about newspaper advertising. He said it was his opinion that good hotels are a great asset to any town or city and the better they are the more they should advertise. As I had overheard an argument today about what constituted a real citizen, I asked Jim what his opinion was of a good citizen. He said, "the mark of a good citizen is his willingness to do that which will be a help to his town or city without regard as to whether that thing will be personally agreeable to him or not. The knowledge that he is helping his city should make it agreeable to him."

"THE RAG" MUST BE PRINTED!

The Calgary Albertan emerged from the press on Friday morning of last week with its front page looking like a printer's "bl", says the Hanna Herald. The reason therefore, was the fact that the "compositors had gone on strike and the editorial staff was pressed into service to produce the paper. One must assume (being the absence of cap. A's from the set material) that how an inspired reporter could miss the location of the A's is rather a mystery. The niche that this letter occupies in the case of the very first of the top left hand side. But the "intellectuals" raised this entirely and cheerfully added in with E's or whatever came handy.

Now if such a happening as this experienced by the Albertan occurred in a first-class country weekly office, the publisher would toss his coat, hitch up his suspenders, wiggle the index finger and thumb on his right hand a couple of times, light his "hay burner" and set to work. Even the modern Hootyph would be alarmed for the all-around country weekly publisher. But his effete city brother finds the mechanical end new, strange and mysterious.

Anyway the paper must be gotten out whether it be in the city or the country town. Strike, lockout, fire, do it, mayhem or revolution may occur, but "the rag" must be printed.

FASCISM COMMUNISM LIBERALISM

Canada will shortly choose which of these three systems it prefers. Under Liberalism the government is a democracy.

The Fascist dictatorship of Mussolini or a Hitler the collectivism of Communism Russia; or the Liberalism of Canada's good neighbor, United States?

Don't any one-man governments like Hitler in Germany, or even the last four years of Bennett in Canada have their merit, but theoretical one-man rule ended the day Napoleon was carried off to St. Helena.

When Canadians visualize the abundance they could enjoy theoretically, if Canada was turned over to Communism, with all waste and choice and friction abolished, Canadians should not forget the violence that would have to be used to suppress the individual desires of free men.

Communism as practiced by Russia is all right as a war measure, where production of food and goods is below subsistence level, as in Russia, and distribution has to be regulated. Russia's absolute collectivism might be all right for a few months where a city was destroyed by fire or a country ruined by earthquake, where centralized decision had to replace individual decisions.

The whole public must be marshalled and drilled and overruled and an iron discipline and duress is required to make millions of people behave according to plans.

No, Canadians do not like the Fascism of Hitler, the purging of Hitler, either of which Premier Bennett would now love to emulate; nor do Canadians want regimentation of Russia's Communism; but Canadians are anxious to have the benefits of constitutional Liberalism applied to their economy and country.

Under enlightened Liberalism it has become necessary to create collective power, to mobilize and regulate resources such as water power, coal, mineral and timber, to work out technical procedures, to neutralize and correct private judgments in insurance and business, wages, hours, weights and measures, regulate street traffic.

And, most important of all, Liberal minds see the sovereignty of money and the necessity to issue and regulate money and credit so that profit and interest rates will not suck so much out of the stream of business that foods and goods which a country produces cannot be distributed.

But after Liberalism does these things, there is still left to the individual a variety of choice as to whether a man shall own his home, what kind of breakfast food he should eat, whether he shall buy a radio, a set of false teeth, or take a trip.

This is not so under Fascism or Communism. Because men of the Hoover and Bennett type have allowed unbridled capitalism to run riot, people had begun to believe that their only salvation lay in placing their necks under the dictatorship of Fascism or Communism.

The coming changing order does not mean that an exclusive choice must be made between the Fascism of Hitler or the Communism of Stalin. Liberalism is always the middle course; it is the compromise between the ideal of what might be and what is.

President Roosevelt and the group by Liberals around him are proving that in Liberalism there is an alternative.

Mackenzie King with, at times, his cooperating Scotch indeterminate nature, may not be a Franklin Roosevelt; but the group of Liberals that are behind him as the principals that those Liberals stand for will surely bring a new ideal for a majority of the people of Canada.

There is a vast difference between the principles of Fascism and Communism and Liberalism, and it is well that Canadians should learn and know the distinction.

Under Fascism a single individual becomes master, the people become slaves.

Under Communism the State becomes master and the people become mere servants of the State.

Under Liberalism the government is the servant of the people. The government must apply to assist in regulating and maintaining those principles. But under Liberalism, government remains not master but always servant of the people.

Canadians must soon decide whether their State or themselves shall master. Vancouver Sun.

POWER!

I stood on the deck of the excursion steamer as it passed the first of the United States of America, lying at anchor in the Hudson River. It was a majestic sight: airplane carriers, cruisers, and battleships; pictureque, with crowded Manhattan and the Bronx on one side, and the Palisades on the other. For a while I was lost in contemplating the might of Mars, and I confess to a great kindling of patriotic pride.

Suddenly we came upon a scene that will linger with me for a long time. There, before us, lay the West Virginia, defiant, super-dreadnaught, and looting it on a hill on the shore was one of the finest churches in the United States, a splendid Gothic edifice. For a moment the two made a single picture.

And I asked myself: "Which of the two represents the greater power, warship of church?"

A young friend standing next to me at the railing told me he had heard on good authority that the fleet could reduce Manhattan to ruins in a few days. What terrible forces it could unleash. But it would be destructive power, no matter how we euphemize war as harsh means to noble ends.

The church, on the other hand, represents the power of peace, the peace on earth that will bless the world when our hearts learn to look upon other nations and races as children of the same God whom we call Father. That power will prevail, for it is the power of truth and love. Battleships will become pretty pictures, but the church will live forever, eternal as the Prince of Peace.

Sunday School Lesson

By Chas. Dunn

Peter's denial.
Lesson for January 27th. Mark 14:12-17.

Golden Text: 1 Corinthians 10:12. The denial of Jesus by Peter is one of the most dramatic episodes in the gospel narrative. It is described by all four of the evangelists. All agree that Peter was identified as disciple three times, and each time denied it until finally the cock crowed. Luke adds that "the Lord turned, and looked upon Peter."

Here Peter appears as anything but a rock. Timid, shrinking, nervous, he is a pitiful figure. How can we account for such a lapse? Matthew calls him constitutionally apprehensive because of his career as a fisherman. The Jews were afraid of the sea, and so the fishermen, thinks Dr. Matheson, were the most timid group in the community, as the shepherds were the bravest.

But a more inclusive explanation is that the situation in which Peter found himself was very trying. Jesus was under arrest. Soon He would be condemned for blasphemy and executed. To be associated with Him at such a dreadful crisis was dangerous. No wonder Peter fell penitently.

Now our present world is in a similar state of panic. Consider what is happening in Germany. Chancellor Hitler is anxious to establish a church that shall abandon the Old Testament in favor of German myths. The German race is to be preeminent, and cherished Christian ideals of the love of God and the brotherhood of man are to be withdrawn because of their Jewish and universal coloring. Due to their refusal to sanction this repudiation of their faith, distinguished professors and pastors now suffer dire persecution. Russia and Turkey are denying Christ in similar fashion. Will these sinning nations repent as did Peter? Time will tell.

This is not a terror picture, but aims solely at providing novel and different amusement which shuns the prosaic, and altogether provides substantial. The German race is to be preeminent, and cherished Christian ideals of the love of God and the brotherhood of man are to be withdrawn because of their Jewish and universal coloring. Due to their refusal to sanction this repudiation of their faith, distinguished professors and pastors now suffer dire persecution. Russia and Turkey are denying Christ in similar fashion. ## AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS

"REMINISCENCES OF OTHER DAYS"

10 YEARS AGO

The lady hockeyists of Wainwright played a very amusing and exciting game with the local hockey boys, and the final score read 8-1 in favor of the ladies! Although the boys claim a very different set figures we have decided to take the ladies' word for it.

The local W.C.T.U. entertained the mothers of Wainwright to a social afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. Pybus and after a very enjoyable program a pleasant time was spent "over the tea-cups."

Mrs. G. Siddall has returned from the city with her little son Billy who has been receiving treatment from a specialist there. The little fellow was indeed very sick.

Last week and a couple of carloads of crude oil were shipped from the B. P. No. 4 to the C.N. headquarters in B.C. to be tested as fuel for the engines.

The Terpening home was totally destroyed by fire on Friday night last the new town fire-siren sounding its first alarm.

Mrs. G. Hudson our local vocalist scored a big hit at the G.V.V.A. Memorial Hall in Edmonton at a city musicale.

Mr. Chas. Ward who has been clerk at the depot for a long time has now taken up his new position as the head office in Edmonton and his position is being filled by Mr. S. Tery.

Mr. Wm. Murray returned from Roycroft where he has been visiting his son Harry.

CONTINUATION OF Federal Parliament

now prevailing, and to ensure to all parts of the country a greater degree of equality in the distribution of the benefits of the capitalist system.

Upon his plan you have made a beginning.

Reform measures approved by you at the last session of parliament are already in successful operation. I observe with especial gratification the manner in which the Natural Products Marketing Act and the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act are already saving the great and urgent needs of agriculture and other primary industries. You will extend the sphere of their usefulness.

The organization of the Bank of Canada is nearing completion, and it will commence operations at an early date. My ministers are convinced of the value of this institution as an instrument of national policy to direct the better utilization of the credit resources of Canada.

Legislation enacted at the last session of Parliament respecting the metallic coverage of the note issue and the stabilization of the public works program have eased credit conditions and stimulated business enterprise.

Better provision will be made for the security of the worker during unemployment, in sickness, and in old age.

The measures taken respecting public and private debts have done much to lighten the burden of the taxpayer and to improve the position of the farming community. My ministers are now engaged upon a survey of the national debt structure to determine what action may be practicable and advisable to effect further improvement in it.

During the past year wider markets for our products have been secured. A supplementary trade agreement has been negotiated with the republic of France. The trade agreement with Austria has been renewed. Negotiations with the government of Poland, which it is hoped will lead to the conclusion of a comprehensive commercial convention, are in progress. It is the policy of my government to pursue vigorously every opportunity by which our work may be increased. The policy of my government of consolidating and expanding export markets will be vigorously pursued.

A royal commission has been appointed to advise my ministers upon the steps which should be taken to implement the findings of the Duncan commission.

Pursuant to the agreement made between the government of Canada and the governments of Saskatchewan and Alberta, royal commissions have been appointed to determine what, if any, compensation is payable to these provinces in respect to the period since 1905 in which their natural resources were under the control of the government of Canada.

My ministers are co-operating with the governments of the prairie provinces in a survey of those areas which have been stricken by recurring periods of drought, for the purpose of determining what steps may be taken to provide a permanent solution to this grave problem.

Action will be taken to ameliorate the conditions of labor, to provide a better and more assured standard of living for the workers, to secure minimum wage and a maximum working week so that it will more directly conform to capacity to pay. You will be invited to enact measures designed to safeguard the consumer and primary producer against unfair trading practices and to regulate, in the public interest, concerns.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

We regret to learn that Garnet, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Abernethy passed away after only three days. The funeral was held last week.

Little Elmer Henry, 2½ months old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Santes, of Fabyan, who died from pneumonia on Tuesday was buried at the Wainwright cemetery on Thursday last. Rev. T. E. Armstrong conducting the service in the McLeod funeral parlors, who had charge of the arrangements.

Withdrawal of Canadian Wheat Preference Urged

WINNIPEG—The Free Press publishes the following special dispatch from London.

"Withdrawal of the preference of six cents a bushel on Canadian wheat entering the British market is urged on the British government by United Kingdom millers, if Canadian wheat is held above the world price."

"Representatives of the millers waited on Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Dominions' secretary, Thursday, and asked that this be done when the Ottawa agreements come up for review in May. If Canadian wheat is still not allowed to enter the British market at world prices."

"Alarm is growing at the disparity of prices, Canadian wheat being 35 per cent above the London price, and imports falling off. The British government is being asked to seek resumption of a free market at Winnipeg, and a world price for Manitoba as if the preference is to remain in force."

The packing of tomatoes in Bermuda is based on what is popularly known as the Ben Chama 20-b. bag. The latter has been in use in Bermuda since 1931 and has now been modified in several minor respects.

"You'd drop me as easily as that?" said Tony.

I found that she'd blown, as usual. If you—" his voice was wistful, "if you've really finished working—" there was something pathetic in proud Tony's appeal, "I'd like to take Ellen out with me for a little drive somewhere or other."

"Oh by all means" said Dick. He was busily scraping bits of paint together with his palette knife.

Ellen hadn't been consulted.

"I'm not suggesting," he said, "that we dine together tonight. We're both worn out." It was his one reference to the night before. "But let's get together tomorrow, you and I. Maybe we can drive again, somewhere. Maybe we can go somewhere outside the city.

And Ellen, with the pulse in her throat choking her, managed to nod a quick affirmative.

"We poor working girls," she said, "like our moments of vacation with our rich relations."

The next evening they drove out to the country to a little inn. It to the country, to a little inn. If their talk were a trifle less formal, now, it wasn't because they were speaking to each other as married couples speak. It was because they were beginning to have a slight basis of reminiscence upon which to build conversation.

Ellen could almost settle herself into the red roadster as if she belonged in it. And Tony didn't look quite so finely drawn as he had at the house party, when they had had their encounter with Jane.

If your advt. was in this space as many people would read it as are reading this. But your advt. isn't here, and people do not worry whether you are selling real estate, gasoline, peanuts or popcorn.

Did you ever sit down in the pasture with a pail between your knees and wait for a cow to back up and be milked?

Of course not. You know better than that.

Well, business is somewhat like a cow. You've got to go out after it and round it up. The fellow with the milk pail between his knees may get some milk, but the odds are all in favor of the fellow who drives up the cow and feeds her.

Some kind of advertising must be done if a business is to amount to anything. Either walking and talking or writing or printing. But the least costly, most profitable and dignified way is by the regular newspaper—people pay for it. They value it and have faith in the advertisements in it.

Taking the Third Degree

Condensed from the New Yorker By Morris Markey

We were standing up at the bar and talking about crime and the police in New Jersey and New York. Steve, one of the bartenders, listened to us and chimed in now and then. Steve was an Irishman, just under 40, and tough-looking. There was nothing sinister or brutal about him, but he had the sort of expression which gives to some of the toughest man nick-names like Baby Face.

He said, "If the dicks ever pick you up for anything over to Jersey I'll guarantee you'll spill things you never told before."

I said, "The Works?"

"You put your name on it," he said. "About two months ago they had me under the light over there. That's what they call it. I spilled stuff I never knew about. I made up stuff to spill so they would let me alone."

"They picked me up about midnight one night," Steve said. "I had been working in a bar for a fellow named Boylan, got off a little before 12 and took a walk down the street. I pulled up at a corner and stood looking at the traffic go by when two of them came up behind me. They took my arms and said, 'Come along. We want to talk to you.'"

"I didn't put up much of a squawk. I knew I was clear. I figured I would just go down with them and tell them who I was—get hold of Boylan—and have the laugh on them."

"We went to headquarters. The two dicks didn't even nod to the lieutenant on duty. They walked me fast down a long hall and into a room that was empty. They had been decent enough in the street, but now they began to throw their weight around. They searched me all over, but didn't find anything, and one of them threw me into a chair. It was hard, with two straight arms, and I hadn't got over landing in it when the light went out. I could hear them scraping something across the floor, and in a minute the light went on again—and what a light!

"It was about 2000 candle power, 2 feet from my eyes. I had a reflector behind it, and in three seconds I was blind as a bat. That light was like fire burning into your eyes. It hurt way in the back of my head. I shut my eyes, but a light like that goes through eyelids. If it had helped to shut my eyes I couldn't have got away with it. Somebody swung a sap down over my hand and said, 'Keep 'em open punk.'"

"I said, 'You better tell me what the hell is the idea of bringing me here, or I'm going to get up and cut loose on you.'"

"They laughed. From the sounds they were making showing chairs and lighting cigarettes and coughing. I knew there were five or six of them. I couldn't see a thing, you understand. One of them said, 'Didn't you ever hear what happens to mugs that start things in police stations?'"

"It's a funny feeling when you're in a room with a lot of men that hate your guts—and you can't see a one of them. That's the way they made you feel. Like they hated you enough to smash your nose any minute."

"So I didn't say any more. I just sat and one of them said, 'I knew he was yellow.' They all chimed in on that, saying, 'Sure, all these dopes have got white livers' and 'He'll be crying in a minute.' Things like that. Then I said, 'Why have you got me here?'"

"They said, one right after another so fast I could hardly understand any of it, a lot of questions that were Greek to me:

"Where are you getting the stuff? ... Where are you going to meet Mike Pavaas? ... How many decks did you start out with tonight? ... What's the name of that Swedish broad? ..."

"I couldn't make sense of it, except I got the idea they thought I was mixed up with dope. I said, 'I haven't got any idea what you're talking about.' I told them my name. I told them if they would get hold of Boylan I could clear myself. All they did was curse me, pretty expert."

"Then one of them said, 'Listen, Mamma's Boy, we know about you and your mob. You've been in this drug racket a long time. But you don't look like a big shot. We're after the boys that tell you what to do, and you can help us. That's a good way to save yourself. You can talk or take it. Make up your mind.'"

"He hadn't finished before I got a sap down over both my hands, almost hard enough to crack the bones. And at the same time one of them moved over to stand on my feet. He must have weighed 200. The light was all heated up now and it was like being in front of a furnace. All I could do was shake my head, and say I didn't know what they were talking about."

"After that, nobody spoke for about ten minutes. I sat as still as I could but after a while shifted in the chair. Somebody said, 'Keep still, rat,' and two of them got me by the shoulders and shook me until my brains were scrambled."

"Then they went back to questions. They must have asked me a thousand. It was all about dope and people and places I was supposed to keep. I didn't even bother to answer them after a while, because they weren't listening to me anyway. It was like a lot of animals yelling at you before they come and tear you up. They had me deaf, and my head was splitting wide open from that light. Every time I shut my eyes or shifted, two or three of them would wrestle me around, yelling, 'Keep still, can't you?'"

"Then they got quiet again, and you could feel them staring at you and you wondered what the hell they were going to think up next. One of them said, 'We don't want to be too hard on him. Give him a drink of water.' That was music to me, because I was on fire inside. I could hear the faucet running, and the water sloshing in the glass. One of them walked toward me, the glass in his hand came into the light. I reached for it, and—bang—somebody knocked it down on the floor. They said, 'What are you trying to do, baby him?'"

"Things like that went on for hours, as near as I could figure out later. After a while these dicks quieted down again and one of them said I ought to have a cigarette. He was right too. All of them had been smoking, and I craved a smoke. They brought a lighted cigarette, but when I reached for it they ground the lighted end into the palm of my hand."

"Then they slapped my face until it was numb, two of them holding my hands down all the time. They pulled my hair and tightened my collar until my breath got short. That went on until I had enough, and I said I was ready to talk. I didn't have anything to tell them, but I made up a lot of stuff. How I was going to meet Pavaas and the Swede girl at such-and-such an address the next morning at ten, and that all the stuff would be there. I gave them a lot of addresses where the mob met—phony addresses, of course, because I didn't know anything about any mob. I made up anything, figuring I would get a breather."

"It was nearly six in the morning when they dumped me into a cell and went away. I was half nuts by that time. The light was still burning in my brain, even in the dark, and I had the kind of headache you read about. I hurt all over, but except for that burn in the palm of my hand, I wasn't marked. They're careful that way. If it came to trial, the burn would have healed and I wouldn't have had any evidence but my own story—and me a confessed dope-peddler."

"They must not have been as tough as they made out, though. Because one of them did look up Boylan, and about five that afternoon he came around. It didn't take him 15 minutes to get me clear—they knew him, and he knew I wasn't a crook. I got apologies from two of the dicks. They said they were mighty sorry it all happened, but that was the only way they could put the bee on most crooks. Give 'em a lawyer and they'd squirm out of anything. The only way was to grab a confession, work up a lot of squealing, and then let the lawyers do what they pleased. I was kind of sore the others didn't apologize. They had plenty of fun mauling me, and I wasn't myself for a week. But Boylan advised me the only sensible thing was to drop it and I did."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

Administrative efficiency is a problem that is engaging the attention of a few.

The government of a state or country should be somewhat like a machine. It should be made to work in such a way that the highest results are obtained at the least cost.

The way to increase administrative efficiency in government machinery lies in eliminating unnecessary expense and directing all tax money to useful ends.

DAIRY PRODUCTS IN CANADA

Total milk production in Canada, says the Department of Trade and Commerce, continues to show an upward tendency which has been due almost entirely to the greater number of cows being milked. It is likely that this trend will continue during 1935. Cheese production continues to decline steadily, with milk being diverted mainly to the manufacture of creamery butter and to the fluid milk market, due to more remunerative returns from these sources. Prices for cheese have been lower both in the overseas and Canadian markets have improved during the past two years. Creamery butter production has increased to such an extent that storage stocks are considerably higher than in the previous year, and these high storage stocks will tend to keep butter prices at a lower and more uniform level during the early months of 1935.
